Mission Spotlight

Wycliffe Bible Translators: Today about 350 million people do not have the Bible in their own language. Wycliffe Bible Translator's vision is to see God's Word accessible to all people in the language they understand best. Wycliffe works all around the world. Currently they serve languages spoken in more than 90 countries. The majority of the remaining translation needs represent minority languages - relatively small people groups, many of which struggle to maintain their identity in the shadow of majority culture. Often these groups have no written language of their own, and many struggle to gain the literacy skills they need to prosper in the majority culture. The benefits of translation and literacy for these minority language groups are many. They include better health as a result of access to medical information, economic growth due to the acquisition of marketable skills, and the preservation of culture thanks to a written history. Since its inception, Wycliffe has made great progress in Bible translation all around the world. To date, they have played a part in the translation of more than 700 Scripture translations. Wycliffe Bible Translators believe that every man, woman, and child should be able to read God's Word in their own language, and most importantly, that Bible translation brings people closer to God Himself - the One who transforms hearts.
